TIP Workshop held at ICFAI Varsity

By OUR STAFF REPORTER

DEHRADUN, 5 Jan: Internship is the most important component of an academic programme. Teacher internship programmes are not an exception. ICFAI University, Dehradun understands TIP as a very significant part of its ongoing BED programme and organises various pre-internship workshops to help the prospective teacher's original teaching behaviour as well as the skills of teaching-learning and evaluation at school level.

"This was revealed by Dr DK Giri, Dean, Faculty of Education, while inaugurating a workshop on "How to write objectives in subjects like Mathematics, Life Sciences, Geography, Social Studies, Commerce, Accountancy and Environmental Science.

During the workshop, the faculty members spoke about the importance of writing general and behavioural objectives and demonstrations were performed by them. It was stated that most of the educational objectives could be placed in three major domains of classification i.e. cognitive, affective and psychomotor.

Students tried to understand the concepts, choose the topics, went through the content and wrote down the objectives in their rough notebook, which was later on corrected by the subject teachers. Once these were rectified, the students were asked to write the objectives on transparency sheets, which were provided by the department and demonstrated with the help of OHP.

In the second half of the day, the workshop was conducted on various subjects like Economics, Physical Science, Business Studies and English. At the end of the workshop, the students used the OHP and presented their individual demonstrations related to their methodology. It was hoped that the workshop would enhance the skills of the prospective teachers.
