Preface

The USAID supported CSISA-Bangladesh project on “Sustainable Rice Seed Production and Delivery Systems for Southern Bangladesh” is being executed in twenty districts in South Bangladesh viz., Bagerhat, Barguna, Barisal, Bhola, Chuadanga, Faridpur, Gopalganj, Jhalokati, Jessore, Jhenaidaha, Khulna, Madaripur, Magura, Meharpur, Narail, Patuakhali, Pirojpur, Rajbari, Satkhira and Shariatpur. The project aims at improving food security in these districts using high yielding rice varieties equipped with tolerances to prevailing stresses. These twenty districts grow rice in about 2.9 M ha out of the country’s total rice area of about 11.3 M ha.

Twelve out of the above twenty project districts in southern Bangladesh face the problem of soil salinity of various levels. Recently, BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and Binadhan - 10 have been released by the Government of Bangladesh for the salinity-prone areas. These varieties can grow in saline soils with EC of 12 dSm^{-1} and have performed well on farmer’s fields with an yield advantage of about 1 t/ha over BRRI dhan 28 and 29, the predominantly cultivated high yielding rice varieties in areas with low soil salinity level. Thus, these salt-tolerant varieties offer a high potential for the expansion of rice cultivation to new salt-affected areas and also to increase rice production in low to moderate saline areas, especially during the ‘Boro’ season.

For the distribution of salt-tolerant rice seeds in the potential areas, an assessment of ‘upazilas’, ‘unions’ and ‘mauzas’ suitable for the dissemination of BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and - 10 rice seeds has been carried out. In the 65 upazilas of 12 salt-affected districts in South Bangladesh, 498 unions and 4070 ‘mauzas’ have been identified, based on criteria described in the report, where these variety can be cultivated. Upazila-wise maps showing the location of ‘mauzas’ suitable (with slight to moderate soil salinity levels) and not suitable (with salinity level severe to very severe) have been provided in this report. Also, ‘mauzas’ with no salinity where other HYVs can be grown, have been shown in these upazilas.

It is hoped that this report will be useful in the assessment of upazila-wise seed requirement and the dissemination of salinity tolerant BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and - 10 and other HYVs in their targeted environments.

We would appreciate receiving feedback on the report.

The funding support for the project on Sustainable Rice Seed Production and Delivery Systems for Southern Bangladesh (SRSPDS) has been provided by the USAID. Md. Abeer Hossain Chawdhury, Director, Computer and GIS Unit, Bangladesh Agriculture Research Council (BARC) made available the mauza, union, upazila and district boundary layers. The soil salinity map of Bangladesh used in this study were received from Soil Resource Development Institute, Dhaka.

Bangladesh is a country of 14.4 M ha geographical area and has a large population (estimated at 158 million in the middle of 2011), with a density of more than 1100 persons per km². Rice is the staple food crop growing on about 72% of the total cultivated land and continues to be the most important crop for food security of the country.

The USAID supported CSISA-Bangladesh project on “Sustainable Rice Seed Production and Delivery Systems for Southern Bangladesh” is being executed by the International Rice Research Institute (IRRI) in twenty districts viz., Bagerhat, Barguna, Barisal, Bhola, Chuadanga, Faridpur, Gopalganj, Jhalokati, Jessore, Jhenaidaha, Khulna, Madaripur, Magura, Meharpur, Narail, Patuakhali, Pirojpur, Rajbari, Satkhira and Shariatpur (Map 1). These districts grow rice in about 2.9 M ha out of the country’s total rice area of 11.3 M ha. The project aims at contributing to the Government of Bangladesh’s efforts in improving national and household food security through enhanced and sustained productivity. Some of the IRRI-bred high yielding rice varieties equipped with tolerances of prevailing stresses (salinity, drought, and submergence) have been tested by the Bangladesh Rice Research Institute (BRRI) and Bangladesh Institute of Nuclear Agriculture (BINA) and released recently by the Government. These include BRRI dhan 51 and 52 having submergence tolerance, BRRI dhan 56 and 57 with drought tolerance and BRRI dhan 47, 53, 54, 55, Binadhan-8 and -10 for salt-affected areas. Besides these, other varieties suitable for favorable areas, including BRRI dhan 28, 29, 33, 44, 49 and 50 are also available, which provide higher yields. BRRI dhan 50 is a long grain aromatic rice variety which fetches better market price. Despite these progresses made in the development of high yielding and stress tolerant varieties, several local and low yielding rice varieties are being grown in southern Bangladesh districts due to the lack of knowledge or non-availability of appropriate seeds to farmers. Thus, there is a need to scale up the production and distribution of high quality seeds to make them available to the farmers on a site-specific basis, as these varieties can give their full potential yields only when they are planted in the soil and growing environments for which they are best suited.

Twelve out of the twenty project districts in southern Bangladesh faces the problem of soil salinity of various levels. Salinity affects rice crop most during the Boro season as the salt concentration becomes high during the dry season. During the Aus and Aman seasons, the salinity gets diluted due to the monsoon rains and its effect on rice yields is not significant. There seems to be good prospects for increasing the rice area and production in these salt-affected districts by using the new salinity tolerant BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and -10. Currently, BRRI dhan 28 and 29 and some local varieties are popular among the farmers in the Boro season. However, these varieties either fail or do not provide high yield during the Boro season due to their being sensitive to salinity. For the distribution of salt-tolerant rice seeds in the potential areas during the Boro season, a site suitability analysis has been carried out for BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and -10. ‘Mauzas’, ‘unions’ and ‘upazilas’ suitable for seed dissemination have been identified as summarized in the present report.

2 Soil Salinity Status in Southern Bangladesh

About 1 million ha area is affected by soil salinity in the coastal region of Bangladesh. Approximately one-third of the total land area of the country is under tidal excursions. The area affected by soil salinity has been reported to be increasing due to the climate change effect. The salt-affected area increased from about 0.83 Mha in 1973 to 1.02 Mha in 2000, and 1.05 M ha in 2009 (SRDI, 2010). Due to the influence of cyclonic storms like ‘Sidr’, ‘Laila’ and others leading to salt water intrusion in croplands, about 35,000 ha new land area has been affected by various degree of salinity during the nine year period of 2000-2009.

Out of the 20 project districts of southern Bangladesh, 12 districts are affected by the problem of soil salinity. These are: Barguna, Barisal, Bhola, Jhalakati, Patuakhali and Pirojpur districts in Barisal division; Bagerhat, Jessore, Khulna, Narail and Satkhira districts in Khulna division; and Gopalganj district in Dhaka division. These districts cover approx. 0.874 Mha of salt affected area, spread over in 65 ‘upazilas’ (Table 1). Out of the total saline area, about 75% have slight to moderate soil salinity (EC ranging from 2-12 dSm⁻¹) and the remaining 25% under severe to very severe salinity category (EC more than 12 dSm⁻¹).

The Soil Resources Development Institute (SRDI) has also prepared a soil salinity map of Bangladesh, which shows the affected area categorized into the following five map units:

Map unit	Description
1	Non-saline with some very slight saline soil
2	Very slightly saline with some slight saline soil
3	Slightly saline with some moderately saline soil
4	Strongly saline with some moderately saline soil
5	Very strongly saline with some strongly saline soil

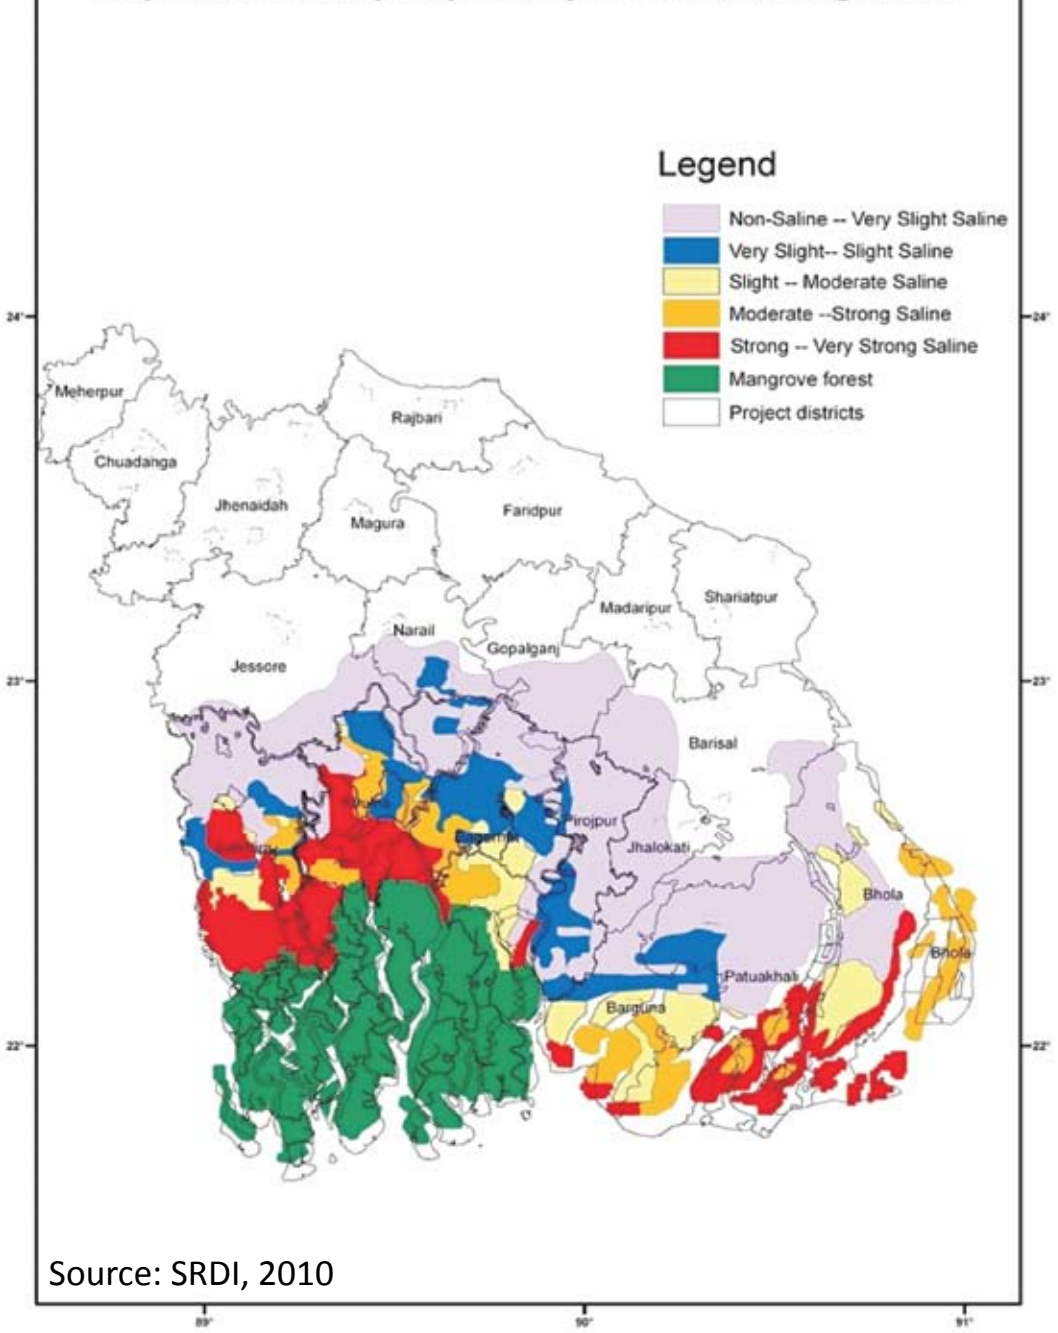

The soil salinity map of the project districts with their salinity categories is shown in Map 2.

Map 2. Soil Salinity Map of Project Districts, Bangladesh

Constraints to Agricultural Production and Present Cropping Pattern in Salinity Affected Districts

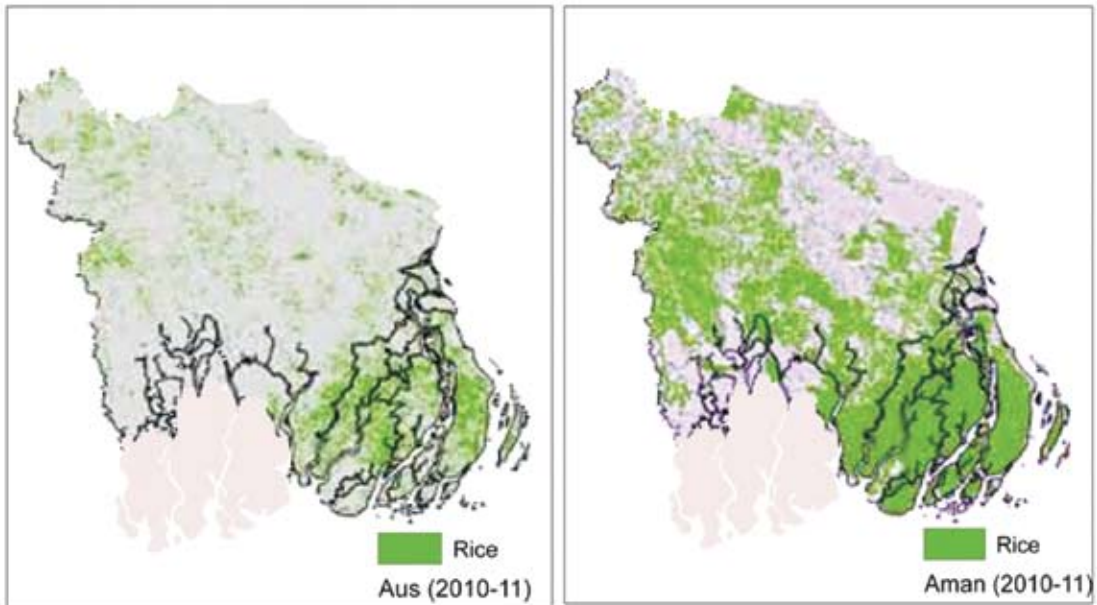

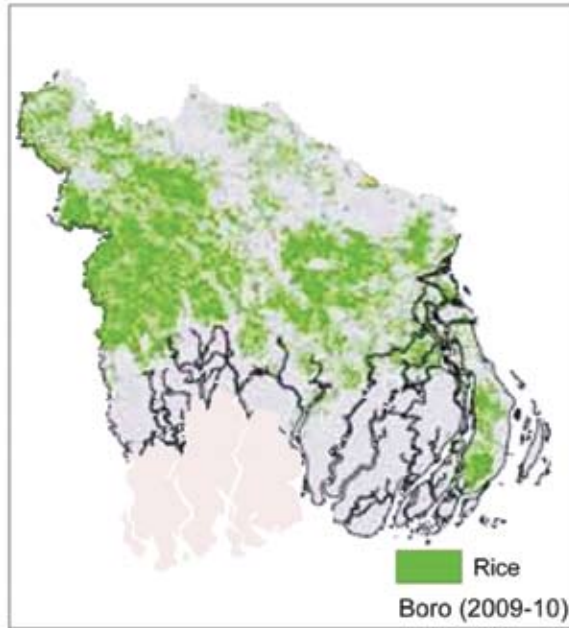

The major constraints to agricultural development in the salt-affected districts are:

- (i) Increased salinity and tidal surge
- (ii) Late draining condition,
- (iii) Presence of saline ground water almost through-out the year within 1 meter depth,
- (iv) Flooding in monsoon season at the time of rice transplanting,
- (v) Late transplanting and harvesting of Aman rice,
- (vi) Poor polder management, leading to ingress of saline water during high tide in the dry season, and
- (vii) Limited options for use of salt tolerant crops.

In the 12 salt-affected project districts, the cropping intensity is lower than the other 8 non-salinity affected districts. Within these 12 districts, the areas affected with slight to moderate soil salinity (mapping unit 1 to 3 on soil salinity map of SRDI) has higher cropping intensity as compared to the areas with severe to very severe saline (map unit 4 and 5 on the soil salinity map of SRDI). This is because no crop can be grown in the severe to very severe saline areas during the dry season. The area also lacks surface water irrigation facility and the ground water can not be used due to high salt content. Rice is the main crop in the area, grown in three seasons- kharif I or Aus (April to August), kharif II or Aman (July to November) and Rabi or Boro (December to May). However, the extent of rice in Aus and Boro in the salt-affected areas is much less as compared to Aman, as can be seen in rice growing area map of the project districts (Map 3).

The percent area under rice in the three seasons is shown in Table 2. Out of the total rice area of 2.895 M ha, about 55% is grown in Aman, where as only 14% in Aus and 31% in Boro. In the districts of Barisal division, which is most affected by salinity, the extent of Boro is low, only 14% as compared to Khulna and Dhaka division, having 39% and 50% area, respectively, under Boro. This is because the crop in the salt-affected districts suffer most during the Boro or dry season as the salts come up on the surface when the soil dries up. In Barisal division, farmers instead grow rice in the Aus season (23% of total rice), taking advantage of early monsoon rains starting in the month of April.

The salt-affected areas are predominantly inhabited by impoverished communities with fewer opportunities for food security and livelihood option.

Some of the salt-tolerant rice varieties released recently in Bangladesh are as follows:

BRRi dhan 47: IR 63307-4B-4-3 is a salt-tolerant, high yielding rice variety, released in 2007 for cultivation in Bangladesh during the Boro season. It is a semi dwarf (105cm), long duration (148-152 days) variety with a yield potential of 6 t/ha. The variety can tolerate salinity level of EC 12-14 dSm⁻¹ at seedling stage and 6-8 dSm⁻¹ during the vegetative growth stages. The harvesting of rice is to be done at 80% grain maturity, due to shattering of grain, and careful harvesting and carrying to threshing floor is required.

Binadhan-8: IR 66946-3R-149-1-1 is a salt tolerant high yielding rice variety, released by the Bangladesh Institute of Nuclear Agriculture (BINA) in 2010. It is a semi dwarf, early maturing and medium bold grain rice variety and requires 130-135 days to mature. It is moderately resistant to bacterial leaf blight, sheath blight, brown plant hopper, stem borer and rice hispa. Under salt stress, maximum grain yield is 5.5 t/ha (average 4.5-5.5 t/ha) and in non-saline area, maximum 9.0 t/ha (average 7.5-8.5 t/ha). The variety is salt tolerant upto EC 10 dSm⁻¹ and is suitable for both 'Boro' and 'Aman'.

Binadhan-10: It is a salt-tolerant, high yielding rice variety developed by BINA, and approved by the Technical Committee of National Seed Board for release. It is a medium duration variety (127-132 days maturity) and can tolerate salt stress of 10-12 dS m⁻¹. Farmers can get a yield of 5.5- 6.5 t/ha in saline and 7.5- 8.5 t/ha in non-saline lands. The plants have strong stem, and there is no lodging even in stormy weather. The variety can be cultivated in both Boro and Aman seasons.

BRRi dhan 53: BR 5778-156-1-3-HR 14 is a salt tolerant, high yielding rice variety released in 2010 for cultivation as transplanted Aman. It is a semi dwarf (106 cm plant height), medium duration (128 days), with medium slender grain and an average yield of 4.5 t/ha. The variety is suitable for cultivation in brackish shrimp field. The variety can be grown under salinity with EC 8-10 dSm⁻¹.

BRRi dhan 54: It is a salt tolerant rice variety released in 2010 for cultivation as transplanted Aman. The variety is semi dwarf (105 cm plant height), medium duration (130 days), with medium slender grains and an average yield of 4.5 t/ha. The variety is suitable for cultivation in brackish shrimp field. The variety can be grown under salinity of EC 8-10 dSm⁻¹.

5.1 Criteria

Criteria used for dissemination of salt-tolerant varieties in Boro season are:

- (i) The area should not have very high salinity (EC not more than 10 dSm^{-1}) as the available salt tolerant varieties can perform best at this salinity level.
- (ii) Surface water for irrigation should be available. Groundwater quality, if being used for Boro, should be good.
- (iii) Preferably select areas where some boro rice is being grown nearby but with low yield due to salt stress, yields need to be improved using salt tolerant varieties.

5.2 Data and maps

The following data and maps were used for site suitability analysis:

- (i) Soil salinity map from SRDI (2010)
- (ii) Rice growing areas map from IRRI (Gumma et al., 2012)
- (iii) Mauza, Union and Upazila boundary from GIS unit, BARC
- (iv) Information on water sources for selected districts from, BBS

5.3 Methodology

The flow chart of the methodology used for site suitability analysis for the dissemination of salt-tolerant rice varieties is given as Fig. 1.

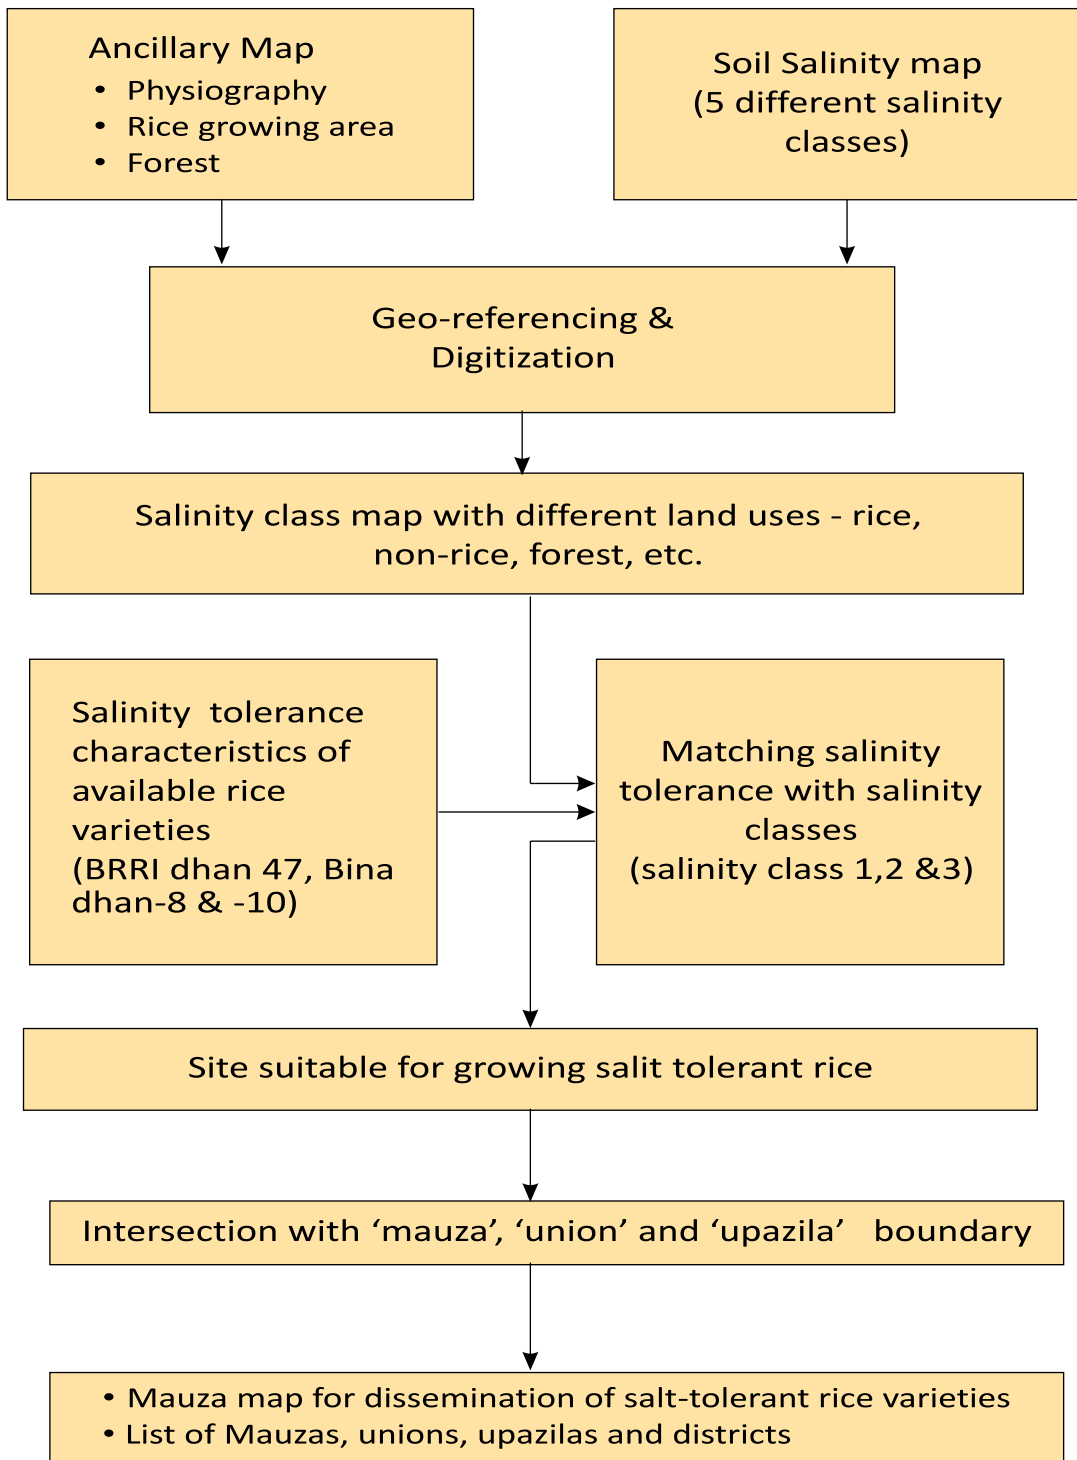

Fig. 1. Flow chart showing the methodology of site suitability analysis

List of 'Mauzas', 'Unions' and 'Upazilas' Suitable for Dissemination of Salt-tolerant Rice

Based on the methodology described in Fig. 1 and field visits carried out in selected project districts and discussions with the DAE officers and farmers during November 2011 to January 2012, the list of 'mauza' suitable in each upazila of the 12 salinity affected districts for the dissemination of salt-tolerant varieties-BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and -10 has been prepared. In the 65 'upazilas' of the 12 districts, where seeds of these varieties can be distributed, 498 'unions' and 4070 'mauzas' have been identified. Four upazilas- Monpura in Bhola district, Dacope and Koyra in Khulna district and Shyamnagar in Satkhira district have entire area under severe to very severe soil salinity and hence not suitable for BRRI dhan 47 or ,Binadhan -8 and - 10. Table 3 provides the summary list of 'upazilas' and Table 4 provides the complete list of 4070 'mauzas'.

A map of all the districts together, showing whether the ‘upazilas’ are wholly or partly suitable for the currently available salt- tolerant varieties is provided as Map 4.

Upazila-wise maps of the ‘mauzas’ have been provided as Map 4.1 to 4.59. These maps show the location of ‘mauzas’ suitable (with slight to moderate soil salinity levels), ‘mauzas’ not suitable (with salinity level severe to very severe) and also the ‘mauzas’ with no salinity, where other HYVs can be grown. All the ‘mauzas’ in Pirojpur district are suitable for dissemination of salt tolerant rice varieties and hence the ‘upazila’ maps of this district are not appended.

From the site suitability analysis carried out for these ‘upazilas’, it has been estimated that about 0.6 Mha out of total 0.874 Mha salinity affected area in the 12 districts can be brought under the currently available salt- tolerant varieties, BRRI dhan 47, Binadhan-8 and - 10, during the Boro season, if the irrigation water is made available. A part of this area, which is currently lying fallow due to high salt content will have an additional crop of rice, whereas other areas with Boro rice being grown currently with low yields may have an average yield gain of 0.5 to 1.0 t/ha.
